

Contents

Notes on Contributors		7
Introduction	HAROLD SCHWEIZER	9
The Suffering of Tiresias in Greek Tragedy	M. A. R. HABIB	17
“Let me be the calm you seek”: Imagination as (Safe)house in Wordsworth’s “Tintern Abbey”	ANNA FOCA	31
Sketch of Proustian Morality: “When the will would fling the reins into the hands of imperious circumstance . . .”	ANGELA COZEA	43
Poetry and Holocaust: Benjamin Fondane, Rachel Ertel, and Edmond Jabès	ARMELLE CHITRIT	60
Oblivion and Memory in Paul Celan	BRUCE LAWDER	70
The Third Retelling of A11380: Fatal Strategies of Transformative Image/Texts	JAMES R. WATSON	80
What Are Poets for—in Austria— “after Auschwitz”?	ERIK VOGT	90
Mourning, Melancholia, Music: A Historiography	HAROLD SCHWEIZER	112
To End the Glorification of Suffering	CATHERINE MAVRIKAKIS	124