

Table of contents

Danksagung	II
Table of contents	III
Abstract	IV
Zusammenfassung	V

PART I: INTRODUCTION

1. Rationale and purpose of this dissertation	2
2. Volunteering as an activity at the interface of work, leisure, and civic engagement	8
3. Understanding the volunteer process	18
5. Candidate's contributions to thesis papers	27
References	28

PART II: SCIENTIFIC PAPERS

The impact of job design on event volunteers' future engagement: Insights from the European Football Championship 2008	35
Introduction	36
Theoretical background	37
Method	42
Analysis and results	45
Discussion	50
References	57

Beyond skills and structure: Justice dispositions as antecedents of young citizens' volunteering and political participation	60
Introduction	61
Theory	62
Method	67
Results	69
Discussion	76
References	81

Volunteering as a beneficial leisure-time activity: The role of job characteristics	85
Theory	86
Method	92
Results	95
Discussion	99
References	105
Appendix	110

National contexts and individuals' motivation to volunteer: A comparison of Red Cross volunteers in eight countries	111
Introduction	112
Theory	112
Method	123
Results	125
Discussion	130
References	135
Appendix	139

Curriculum vitae	140
-------------------------------	------------