

Contents

1	The Globalized Law of Value	1
2	Capitalism and Ground Rent	5
2.1	Rent and the Ownership of the Soil: Going Back to Capital	9
2.2	From the Capitalist Mode of Production to Capitalist Formations: Class Alliances and the Creation of the World Capitalist System.	14
2.3	The Development of Capitalism in Agriculture: The Theories of Kautsky, Lenin, and Chayanov	18
2.4	The Domination of Agriculture by the Capitalist Mode of Production.	22
3	Modernity and Interpretations of Religions	31
3.1	The Flexibility of Religious Interpretations.	31
3.2	Judaism, Christianity, Islam, One or Three Religious Metaphysics?	34
3.3	Religion and Society: The Risk of Theocracy	38
3.4	The Reformation, The Ambiguous Expression of Christianity's Adaptation to Modernity.	44
3.5	Political Islam.	52
3.5.1	The European Renaissance and the Arab Nahda	52
3.5.2	Contemporary Political Islam	55
4	Re-reading the Post War Period	61
4.1	The Postwar Period, 1945–1992: An Overview	61
4.2	Establishing the Global Economic System: 1945–1955	61
4.3	The Bandung Era: 1955–1975.	63
4.4	The Collapse of the Global System: 1975–1992	64
4.5	Establishing the Global Economic System: 1945–1955	67

5 Historical Capitalism: Accumulation by Dispossession	79
5.1 Capitalism: A Parenthesis in History	82
5.1.1 The Twentieth Century: The First Wave of Socialist Revolutions and the Awakening of the 'South'	85
5.1.2 Bandung and the First Globalization of the Struggles (1955–1981)	85
5.2 The Long Decline of Capitalism and the Long Transition to World Socialism	86
5.2.1 The Counter-offensive of Capitalism in Decline	87
5.2.2 In Counterpoint: The Aims and Means of a Strategy of Constructing Convergence in Diversity	88
5.2.3 For a Socialist Renewal of the Twenty First Century: The Capitalism/Socialism Conflict and the North/South Conflict are Inseparable	89
5.3 The Plutocratic Oligarchies and the End of Bourgeois Civilisation	91
5.3.1 The Wheeler-dealers, The New Dominant Class in the Peripheries	91
5.3.2 Senile Capitalism and the End of Bourgeois Civilization	93
5.3.3 The Fragility of Capitalist Globalisation	93
5.3.4 Is Lucidity Possible in the Transformative Activities of Societies?	95
References	98
6 The Two Paths of Historical Development: The Contrast Between Europe and China	99
6.1 The General and the Particular in the Trajectories of Humanity's Evolution	99
6.2 The Peasant Question at the Heart of the Opposition Between the European and Chinese Development Paths	100
6.3 Modern China Before Europe	101
6.4 The Great Pre-modern Regionalisations and the Centralisation of the Tributary Surplus	102
6.5 The Centralisation of Tributary Surplus	102
6.6 The Chinese Itinerary: A Long, Calm River?	103
6.7 Phonetic Writing, Conceptual Writing	104
6.8 China was Five Centuries Ahead of Europe	105
7 Russia in the World System: Geography or History?	107
References	114

8 China: The Emerging Nation	115
8.1 The Agrarian Question	116
8.2 Present and Future of Petty Production	118
8.3 Chinese State Capitalism	120
8.4 The Integration of China into Capitalist Globalization	122
8.5 China, Emerging Power	124
8.6 Great Successes, New Challenges	127
References	131
World Forum for Alternatives	133
About the Author	139
About the Book	143